MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support

Bob:

I discussed this subject with the Director. He was quite strong in insisting that a board of senior officers, representative of all Agency components, be established to de-brief returnees and to implement lessons learned.

In view of this, it would not appear necessary for you and [] to pursue the matter with the Director. I have discussed this with Colonel White, who agrees. He suggested that you and [] continue to work on a plan to meet the Director's needs and to discuss it with him upon his return in early July.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR

I lunched with Bob Bannerman and John Richardson today to pass along to them the gist of our luncheon conversation yesterday in which you expressed a desire to systematize the exploitation of the experience of CIA and other personnel returning from key assignments overseas to ensure that the lessons learned are incorporated into our own program. As I indicated yesterday, we do some of this now. However, I am sure we can improve considerably and am confident that we can go much further toward systematizing the whole arrangement.

I suggested to Bob that he and John Richardson make an appointment to see you in the next several days to brief you on what we do now and what improvements they propose to meet your objectives.
